

RE: CELL PHONES ON AIRPLANES

No, no, and no. The use of cell phones while in flight is a receipt for disaster. In small quarters and 30,000+ feet in the air I already have to contend with screaming babies [not their fault], young children, loud talkers, etc. To add unwanted cell phone conversations would be too much; I would stop using airplanes and resort to trains or cars.

Given the confinement of an airplane, I really, really know that air rage will increase by 200% or more. I would be very assertive to ask the stewardess to have cell phones off in my area, even if cell phones are assigned to specific area and it reaches my ears. It is bad enough that I must listen to cell phones while shopping, on public transportation, walking in public areas, but to extend this often abused privilege to airplanes....no, no and no.

Thank you for your time and consideration.
